Background: San Francisco, the official name for the San Francisco city, is located in the United States, northern California city, also alias "Golden Gate City", "Bay Side of the city", "fog city" and so on. There are many artists, writers and actors living in the 20th century and the beginning of the 21st century has been the United States and the modern liberalism, modernism, one of the center of progress. Due to the rise of technology companies around them and the development of the Pacific Rim in recent years, San Francisco continues to experience ever-changing changes. Jinshan no longer "old", but often common new.

"San Francisco is changing" These words are now almost become a cliché.

There is no doubt that the city is now undergoing earth-shaking changes, science and technology funds and "gypsum" (programmer) have poured here. However, it is easy to be mistaken that the "new" change in San Francisco is caused by the middle class and the "evil forces" of the influx of people.

I call San Francisco a "home". It was nearly five years since I left this house the last time. I am curious about the "new" city in the end with some changes. So, recently I went back once and did one of my best things: explore the city through the food. I would like to eat while eating, feel the "new" San Francisco's most innovative and bright side.

Here I mentioned the place is not what tourist attractions or institutions, but these people are doing some innovative and interesting food or hospitality services. I hope that in exploring and enjoying the city of the bay, I can give you some freshness.
